8:00 am - 8:30 am

Breakfast & Registration

8:30 am - 9:30 am

Keynote: Legal Talent Strategies: What it Takes to Be Indispensable in the Digital Economy

Speaker: Joe Halprin, Senior Vice President, Assistant General Counsel--Global Processing, Mastercard

The digital evolution is in full swing. As consumers become increasingly connected, payments are transforming to keep up with their bustling lifestyles that demand an array of fast, simple and secure ways to pay. In addition, the rapid changes in technology and lower barriers enable an ever larger number of participants in the financial technology space, an insatiable demand for new products, services, features and functionality, and real time consumer interaction and feedback. The result, transactions are more complex than ever and the time to design, develop, test, launch and deliver is shorter.

In this keynote, we'll highlight some key areas of digital transformation at Mastercard and the innovative legal solutions developed by the Mastercard legal team to help drive the business forward. This will include a discussion on how the Agile Lawyering approach can be applied to the next generation of in-house law departments – to not just embrace change, but find ways to use it to enhance shareholder value.

9:30 am - 10:30 am

Building a High-Value Corporate Legal Department in Transformative Times

Speaker: Megan Ryan, General Counsel/ Executive Vice President of Legal Affairs, NuHealth

Speaker: Julie Cantor, Corporate Counsel, Compass

Speaker: Jeff Gusman, Lead Counsel & Director, Capco

Speaker: Ian Connett, Legal Director, Collective

Moderator: Travis Bickham, Vice President of Marketing, Concord

Faster, better, cheaper are the new imperatives for in-house legal teams as corporate budgets shrink and advanced technologies break new ground. For example, instead of spending hours fine-tuning litigation-proof contracts, companies are tasking legal to come up with standardized approaches that deliver greater efficiencies from more accessible services. In this lively discussion, we'll take a deep dive into issues surrounding what a strong legal department looks like; when and how to make the case for expanded headcount; and what should legal be doing—and in what order—to optimize performance and drive efficiency.

Speaker: Cheryl Givner, Senior Vice President, Assistant General Counsel, Mastercard

Speaker: Darryl Gibbs, Lead Director & Associate General Counsel, AXA US

Moderator: Vivia Chen, Senior Columnist & Chief Blogger, ALM

Diversity goes beyond a statistic on the annual report – it's about creating a workforce that embraces differences as something valued, desired and leveraged by the organization as a whole. Therefore, the big question shouldn't only be, 'how can we bring in more diverse employees?', but also, 'how can we change our organization's culture so that it embraces diversity'? Discussion topics include: - Identifying recruitment strategies to meet the needs of diversity & inclusion-focused organizations - Addressing future retention issues – before they start – by shifting the organization's culture - Best practices for socializing the importance of increasing diversity in all forms - language, age, sexual orientation, disability, background and culture.
