Expert insights

“The nuclear industry can achieve the momentum required to create an additional 1000 GWe of new capacity by 2050.”

---

Agneta Rising, Director General, World Nuclear Association

“Nuclear power is the cheapest and most stable form of energy in Korea.”

Baek Sik Noh, VP and Head of Global Strategy Office, KHNP

“The decision of the UK Government to proceed with Hinkley Point C is truly an historic moment. It marks the relaunch of nuclear in Europe and it will transform the prospects for our industry.”

Vincent de Rivaz CBE, CEO, EDF Energy

“The important point is that investment in nuclear power projects is not held back everywhere and I think we can learn much from observing where nuclear power generation and programme development is proceeding.”

---

Ahab Abdel-Aziz, Partner and Global Director of Nuclear Power Generation at Gowling WLG

“We were able to get New York to recognise the zero emission attributes of the plants in up-state New York, and that was a significant achievement.”

J. Bradley Fewell, Vice President and Deputy General Counsel of Exelon Generation

First class networking

Each Symposium provides valuable opportunities for attendees to network and meet new faces from across the industry. The 2016 Symposium opened with a reception sponsored by KHNP, taking place in London's Inner Temple. The gala dinner on Friday evening marked the end of the Symposium and took place in the Guildhall, a prestigious and historic venue, with a cultural experience sponsored by CNNC.

"Symposium is a unique opportunity to meet the nuclear industry of the world, to share experiences and knowledge"

Leonam dos Santos Guimarães, Director for Planning, Management and Environment, Eletronuclear

"Symposium is a chance for us to meet up with our customers from around the world"

Tim Gitzel, President and CEO, Cameco Corporation

"This event presents a significant opportunity for us to meet more than 600 people working in the nuclear industry"

Frédéric Lelièvre, Executive Vice President Sales/Regions & I&C., AREVA NP
