Next Level Leadership: How to Achieve Commitment, Accountability, and Peak Performance in the Post-Pandemic Workplace

WSACE is pleased to announce we are bringing back international leadership speaker David Rabiner for a multi-day leadership program you will not want to miss. After the positive response to last year's program in Chelan, David has developed a program that will take your leadership skills to the next level. He'll begin with an overview of how the labor market and employee expectations have changed over the last year and then explore the critical skills you need now to demonstrate exceptional leadership in 2022 and beyond. David promises this multi-day program will be thought-provoking, practical, leading-edge, and fun. In addition to revisiting some of the fundamental leadership concepts David presented last year, this program goes from the ground level – how to conduct job interviews to find and win over the right people for your team, for example – to the 30,000 foot level of strategic, long-term planning.

If you are looking for a way to show your appreciation and gratitude for the managers and supervisors who have hung in there with you over the last two years, David highly recommends you invite them to attend. This valuable gift of professional development begins Tuesday at noon and continues through Thursday at noon and will provide the perfect opportunity for your leadership team to reflect, learn, relax, and connect. Whether you're a long-term manager or an aspiring new leader, you'll leave with the foundation for your own leadership development plan – as well as the tools and desire to implement it.

David Rabiner lives in Portland and has been a speaker, trainer, facilitator, and executive coach for almost 30 years. His body of work now includes more than 2,300 programs in 46 US states and 14 countries. Prior to this career, David spent ten years in city and county administration and understands the unique leadership challenges local government managers face. His programs are fast paced, compelling, and entertaining. Most important, his programs create change - the hallmark of professional speaking and training.
