*Bishop Kenneth L. Carder is the Ruth W. and A. Morris Williams Distinguished Professor Emeritus of the Practice of Christian Ministry at Duke Divinity School. Prior to joining the faculty at Duke in 2004, he was an active bishop in The United Methodist Church serving the Nashville and Mississippi Areas. He served as a local church pastor for thirty-five years in eastern Tennessee and southwest Virginia, including Concord United Methodist Church and Church Street in Knoxville, TN, and First United Methodist Church in Oak Ridge, TN. Bishop Carder has earned degrees from East Tennessee State University (BS), Wesley Theological Seminary (MDiv); and Vanderbilt Divinity School (DMin). When his wife Linda was diagnosed with Frontal Temporal Dementia (FTD) in 2009, his primary vocation changed to caregiver, a role he continued until her death in October of 2019.

^Dr. Jack L. Seymour is Professor Emeritus of Religious Education at Garrett-Evangelical Theological Seminary in Evanston, IL. He has taught at Garrett since 1988 - where he also served as academic dean. He also taught at Scarritt Graduate School, Chicago Theological Seminary, and Vanderbilt University. For 11 years, Jack served as editor of The Journal of Religious Education for the Religious Education Association (REA). He is one of the co-editors of the REA book series, "HORIZONS in Religious Education." Jack is interested in inter-religious education, in the theological education of the people of God, and of the history of education in the U.S. Jack is also a United Methodist minister.
