

2023 Field Trip

Leather from British Pastures: creating traceable supply chains that regenerate land.

This field trip will invite attendees to consider how traceability in supply chains for textiles and leather can support regenerative agriculture and its positive impacts. Featuring regenerative farmers that are certified by Pasture for Life, and whose farms supply hides for British Pasture Leather (a new supply of leather made from the hides of cattle raised on regenerative farms in the UK), the field trip will introduce attendees to the principles and practices of agroecological / regenerative livestock production. Discussion of the process to develop and produce British Pasture Leather will bring this farming story into context of material supply chains, including the importance and relevance of local abattoirs and traceability.
