

Niall Boyce

Niall Boyce trained in medicine at Oxford University, and also gained a PhD in physiology from King's College, London. He subsequently worked on the University College London psychiatry rotation. He is a member of the Royal College of Psychiatrists. Niall joined The Lancet as a Senior Editor in 2010 before moving on to The Lancet Psychiatry in 2013. His interests include suicide research, trauma, old age psychiatry, and social and transcultural aspects of mental health.